

HOW TO STAY RESILIENT DURING EXAM SEASON

Exam time can often be stressful and nerve wracking. While some stress can be a positive motivator, being too nervous or tense can lead to exhaustion, anxiety and be counterproductive.

GET SOME SLEEP

If you go to bed feeling anxious, you'll find it harder to fall asleep. Avoid starting a new chapter of your revision book late in the day. It'll still be there in the morning when your mind is fresh.

DON'T AVOID TOPICS YOU DISLIKE

If a particular subject is causing issues, don't dwell on it for too long but don't forget about it completely. Change your study environment or talking it through with someone can work wonders.

FUEL YOURSELF EFFECTIVELY

Snacking on junk food while revising is all too easy, but won't do you any good. Brain foods like blueberries or avocado can help memory function. And don't be tempted to overdo the caffeine or drugs that claim to enhance performance - the downsides outweigh any supposed benefits.

FLEX YOUR MIND AND BODY

Any form of exercise is good during exam time - like going for a bike ride or a kick about with your friends. Yoga is particularly good at stimulating your brain to produce chemicals to control calmness. Deep, slow breathing techniques can aid relaxation. And even a few daily minutes of mindfulness can stop you feeling overwhelmed.

AVOID NEGATIVE VIBES

Avoid being a sounding board for moans from your friends. e.g. a 'Who's more stressed?' contest will do no-one any good. Tune your TV to a comedy series rather than the news.

SCHEDULE IN A TREAT

Have something other than a single track focus on exam day. Book in a break away with friends that you can start looking forward to. Research things to see and plan some activities to take your mind off the task at hand.

REMINDER ✨

If you didn't feel nerves during exam time, you wouldn't be human.

Remember exams only count for a small fraction of your life, so don't forget about the rest of it. Be gentle to yourself. Be kind to your mind. And reach out for support if you need to.
